JULIET CULLINAN
Standard Bank
WINE FESTIVAL

A STANDING OVATION
FOR THE CAPE'S FINEST

4 - 6 JUNE 2019 ~ SUMMER PLACE, SANDTON

ART IN A GLASS - TRENDING TALENT.

Juliet Cullinan is one of the world's most respected wine promoters, a visual taster and host to the oldest and most exclusive festival in South Africa. Her first festival, 29 years ago, was a watershed moment for wine enthusiasts and marked the beginning of some of her unprecedented firsts.

A member of both the Confrérie des Chevaliers du Tastevin, the exclusive Burgundian society of only 12,000 world wide members and The Ordre des Côteaux de Champagne - the official Champagne fraternity, possibly one of the very few people to be inducted into both.

Having embarked on her career as the first female wine journalist in Johannesburg, her knowledge of wine styles, oenological techniques, local and international regions and wine craftmanship has gained her recognition across the globe from South Africa to New York, London and Europe. Juliet's passion for the vine, took all the snobbery out of wine and made it accessible to everyone. Her definitive voice and views on early Cape winemaking techniques and contemporary styles have earned her the respect of connoisseurs the world over.
She has made wine accessible through her artistic interpretations of tastes and aromas. In 2005 she launched the first wine images depicting the flavours found in grape varieties. A wine glass filled with the distinctive flavours of a "New World vintage" with bouquets of fruit, flowers or spices of each.

Juliet has designed wine symbols to visually describe the structure of wine, without having to write tasting notes out in longhand, which she launched at the 2005 Gourmet Voice in Cannes.

In 2009 she created the first Google Vineyard Streetviews using South Africa's top wineries. She went on to work with Google creating the first Virtual Reality wine tour using Google's innovative 3D Glasses for guests seated on Vesper scooters at the 2017 festival.

She introduced QR codes with links to the wineries on the Monte Carlo Wine & Business Club 2011 catalogue; redefined wine as a fine art, by matching varietal wines to paintings from the Standard Bank private collection and created the first bespoke bread and wine pairings using flavours found in wine as ingredients in the 2006 "Decorex Bread and Wine tasting".

This years Juliet uncorks new ‘made-to-measure’ wine wheels: fact-filled reference discs defining grape varieties and fruit flavours, that slip around the stem of a tasting glass.

They are a quick reference to show tasters what to look for and flavours to expect.

The 2019 Festival brings together "the old school classist (older generation) and the “new school” contemporary wine taster (millennial). Each with their own views and taste preferences, both contributing to the style of Cape winemakers’ wines of today and harvests of tomorrow. “Our Wine Wisdom Workshops offered at the Juliet Cullinan Standard Bank Wine Festival this year are tailored for both the experts and the influencer”, says the First Lady of Wine.

Wine is not a one-size-fits-all approach and it takes a personal connection.  This year our guests can view the catalogue online and design their own personalised tasting sheet.

“After 29 years, the festival is older than many of the winery representatives and I now find myself working with the second generation of winemakers, many of whom inherited their mantles from their fathers.

“Since wine spans age groups and cultures, the Festival appeals to connoisseurs and millennials, and because every participating winery is handpicked, the show is always unique in its magnitude, quality and distinction.”

Thank you for appreciating these wines with us.

EXCEPTIONAL WINES PORTRAYING A SENSE OF PLACE

The Juliet Cullinan Standard Bank Wine Festival is the defining wine show for reserve wines, limited releases and exclusive labels. It is also the oldest in the country.

With a 19 year sponsorship from Standard Bank, the Juliet Cullinan Standard Bank Wine Festival is the most inspiring and uncompromising collection of the finest Cape wines, drawing together winemakers from every corner of the country. Designed for both professionals and enthusiasts, it is an official guide to the leaders of our time.

The Juliet Cullinan Standard Bank Wine Festival is attended by wine lovers, movers and shakers and captains of industry who enjoy wines with classical flavours or new world zing - this is a "must attend" event for those who like exclusivity.

Juliet Cullinan's 29 year reign over the wine kingdom and her unswerving resolve to showcase only the supreme, shines through the decades as festival guests continue to unveil vintage excellence.

Sensational cellars are a given at this small personal show offering limited release wines and this year will be no exception. Since every participating winery is carefully selected, it's about both style preferences and quality as every label shows distinction. As always, by showcasing elite boutique wineries and inviting the top talent, she provides the ideal forum for interaction between wine aficionados, gifted cellar masters and guests of every age, to discuss vintages, maturation, and terroir.

She has built her reputation on a foundation of continuity, celebration and commitment: to offer the very best experience for both the winery and the taster.

Most of all, Juliet appreciates Standard Bank's support. Nearly two decades is a long time for a sponsorship and attests to their faith in her mission to promote the finest Cape wines.

Juliet Cullinan welcomes you to the longest running, premier wine festival in the country offering the very best experience for both the winery and the taster. It's thanks to our supportive wine guests that the festival continues to grow in stature and excellence.

19 YEARS OF TOASTS, AT SOUTH AFRICA'S PREMIER WINE CELEBRATION

It is not often in our busy lives that we get together to celebrate South African icons. This year we celebrate icons of the South African wine industry.

We welcome the talented winemakers that showcase their wine varietals at the 19th Juliet Cullinan Standard Bank Wine Festival. We proudly support local industry players within the agricultural sector - their passion and dedication to their craft provide the stimulus for economic growth. The interest of local and international wine enthusiasts generates buying potential that amplify the industry's contribution to the economy as well as contributing to the employment agenda of South Africa.

We salute Juliet Cullinan, an industry icon in her own right. Juliet makes the wine industry an art form for all, inspiring both seasoned and young South African wine devotees to embrace all that the wine industry has to offer.

As a committed sponsor of arts and culture, we value our sponsorship of The Juliet Cullinan Standard Bank Wine Festival. We celebrate South Africa's rich and varied heritage through our relationship with arts and culture and our sponsorships of the Joy of Jazz Festival, the National Arts Festival and the Standard Bank Young Artists Awards, all of which demonstrates our commitment to honouring and celebrating our local innovative spirit.

To Juliet, the talented wine makers and our esteemed guests, we thank you all for joining us in sharing in this very special collaboration. We toast to your very good health. Please enjoy your evening.

Kind regards,

MCC PRESENTED BY NEWMAN SIGOGA

Newman Sigoga, sommelier at the Michelangelo Hotel in Sandton, will be guiding you through your tasting. In his words, "I grew up in Victoria Falls, Zimbabwe, where in my experience, wine was only served in hotels and restaurants. The concept of wine and the appreciation thereof was foreign to me - a mystery! Coming to South Africa in 2009 was a watershed moment. Although very few people in the townships drink wine, I discovered the culture of wine. I'm studying for my Cape Wine Masters and my dream is to open a wine shop in the future."

A TASTE OF SOMETHING NEW - COMING FULL CIRCLE

Introducing a new era of mutual understanding between the generations was the motivation behind my development of wine wheels - fact-filled, easy reference mandalas peppered with flavourful possibilities, that work in varying combinations for everyone.

Both 'old school' classists and 'new school' contemporary tasters, contribute to the style of flavours designed for the wines of today and harvests of tomorrow. There are no rights or wrongs here, only explorations of the nuances.

Over the years I've learnt, however, that trying to tell people of any generation how to live their lives or enjoy their wines, is futile. They will ignore you. And rightly so. Different tactics and techniques are called for when it comes to the fruits of youthfulness, especially those living under the yoke of varsity budget constraints. I wanted to let them experience for themselves how a fine wine can encapsulate the sensation of eating warm plums in summertime.

An upbringing that introduces vinicultural concepts from an early age is my personal ideal. My familial memories are dappled with sunshine and toasted in good wines stored in dark cellars for perfect maturation. My father and grandfather instilled in me the old-school art of tasting by uncorking the bottle ahead of time to 'breathe'. They chose ideal venues, paired fish with white wine, and steak with reds. They relished the analytical approach - sniffing, swirling around the palate; assessing the soils, grapes, region, age and cellar master skills.

The Romantic Manifesto – an emotional connection the taster makes the moment the wine is sipped – is the golden thread that binds them all.

The Contemporary Quaffer:
The millennial wine drinker lives in the moment, sampling flavours as they arise, without preconceived expectation.

Impulsive, visual, dynamic, engaging several senses at once, the contemporary quaffer rapidly texts, takes pics, tweets, and posts on social media in between engaging with others irl (in real life). Not for them the cosy tête-à-tête!

A TASTE OF SOMETHING NEW - COMING FULL CIRCLE

Screw caps or corks? Dark green or transparent bottles? Who cares? Contemporary quaffers are less analytical, more experimental, and, for them, instagrammability is key. That's why they seek photographic perfection and style – that perfectly designed glass, bottle, label or signature – over the ideal flavour of the grapes.

So long as there's visual personality - a gourmet picnic hamper, silk fabrics or flowers providing a measure of class and photographic potential to the newly launched wine, they're happy.

The Classical Quaffer
While both generations have romantic connections to the taste in the glass, experience, memory and personal tasting history come into play here.

Expecting certain definite flavours, tastes, and maturation from the wine, the classical quaffer looks at the label, country, terroir (climate, soils and slope aspect) grape varietal, oak maturation, and the age in the bottle.

While a wine may surprise the Classicist palate or nose with its weight, depth, elegance, flavour and age, preconceived expectations based on knowledge and experience, are generally met.

Cheers,
Juliet Cullinan

QUEEN OF THE TASTEVIN

Juliet Cullinan describes her induction into les Confrérie des Chevaliers, a knighthood of wine kinship, at the Château du Clos de Vougeot in Burgundy's Cote d'Or region.

On 5 May this year, one of my lifelong dreams bore fruit when the Chevaliers du Tastevin, a vinaceous fraternity that pledges allegiance to Burgundy invited me to join their aspirational society.

With only 12 000 members world-wide selected on merit, talent, lively conversation, and dedication to the vine, I could barely breathe with excitement during the intense build-up to the exclusive banquet where I would be invited to join this society of vintage distinction.

Crested envelopes with the franked confrérie logo from Beaune brought news of my induction and seating plans on elegant textured paper. A separate card printed with images of the dress code made it clear that "black tie and long evening dresses is obligatory".

The deep guttural moan of French horns blown by huntsmen in jackets, jodhpurs, and black boots heralded our arrival to the impressive 12th Century Château du Clos de Vougeot, where its 50 hectares of vineyards planted by Cistercian monks continues to make the famous Clos de Vougeot Grand Cru.

We sip locally-made Crémant de Bourgogne and introduce ourselves. Low heeled shoes are preferable in these cobbled courtyards and I joined the other guests in all their finery, sporting the silver saucer-shaped tasting cups that identify members. The colours of the ribbon representing Burgundy's red and white wines. Voluble greetings and eager discussions on food and wine are heard before we approach the original centuries-old wooden wine press for the prestigious gathering.

French Horn players and court jesters dressed in red, green, and yellow serenade the guests with stirring traditional music as the Grand Conseil of Chevaliers in gold-trimmed red academic gowns and flat caps fashioned after the attire of 16th-century theologians, with the tastevin as their symbol perform the Gallic ceremonies.

As the chevaliers introduce me and say the Juliet Cullinan Standard Bank Wine Festival in French, I take a second to savour the delicious moment of being the first South African woman to be publicly honoured in this way.

I was knighted in honour of wine saints with an 84-year-old petrified grapevine root kissed on both cheeks, signed my name with a feathered pen and finally the coveted red and gold ribbon was bestowed upon me.

Experiencing all the pomp and circumstance, I consider it ironic that this elite fellowship was formed during the economic crisis in 1934, when Camille Rodier and Georges Faiveley invited their friends to Nuits-Saint-Georges for an unforgettable banquette with a gallant welcome.

The epitome of French appreciation for gastronomy, each chapter pledges to honour and promote Burgundian, produce her great wines and tourism. An Impressionist Utrillo painting is just one of many awe-inspiring works of art, tapestries, and sculptures on display.

A procession of waitrons bearing traditional fare on silver platters serve the six-course, silver-service dinner to 500 guests. Dishes and wines are amusingly described as we all sing traditional songs with by Les Cadets de Bourgogne, the Burgundy folk singers, in traditional dress featuring beards, flat black caps, and operatic voices might have been the same men who sang in those early days. We laugh, and revel in the array of gourmet dishes and wines interspersed with toasts, and more wine, amid more trumpeting and French horns.

I'm privileged to be part of this brotherhood with its rituals and ceremonial traditions of a bygone era. Promoting wine and gourmet dishes in honour of my tastevin is exactly what I intend to continue doing!
